Russellville native Paul Vitale (right) stands with Kyle Eversgerd of the St. Louis Rams during the 2012 NFL High School Player Development camp hosted by the Rams recently. Vitale, along with Rams coaches and former players and staff, spoke to high school football players to address their challenges. It serves as a free resource for both high school players and coaches across the country. The program emphasizes safety and concussion awareness, character development and life skills, and football fundamentals.
